

LEARNING Before LUNCH

Starting with our January 11th program, LBL lectures will be held in Room 407 of the Earl K Long Library at UNO.

The library is very easy to find – it is the central building on campus.

The new room will present us with a warmer, more intimate setting and a fantastic view of the lake.

PARKING: Parking is still free and readily available. Several lots offer easy access to the library.

NOTE: The lots we recommend below will be free for LBL guests. Other parking lots on campus are limited to registered vehicles.

University Center lot: this is the one you are familiar with from our prior sessions in the UC. A walk of about 325 steps to the library.

Homer Hitt Alumni Center lot: (The building with the tall smokestack on the lake edge of campus.) This lot is accessible from Lakeshore Drive and has many parking spots. It is a slightly shorter walk than from the UC lot. It is directly in front (North) of the library.

Performing Arts Center lot: This is between the library and Performing Arts Center. It is the closest to the library but has limited space. If you plan to use this lot, we advise that you come early in case you have to divert to one of the larger lots. It is accessible off Leon C Simon Blvd, enter the campus at the traffic light on St Anthony.

Bus and ramp access: An access road to the side of the library is available via Founders Road off of Leon C Simon. Buses and cars needing direct access to wheelchair ramp may offload there. Please be aware there is no parking there, pick-up and drop-off only.

We do hope that any inconvenience caused by our shift is minimal. Parking is still readily available, only learning a new endpoint is required. The new room and location, we feel, will offset any one time inconvenience. We look forward to seeing you at our coming sessions.

An independent non-profit organization powered by volunteers
